Mr. Decter -

Perhaps in the nearly two years its taken for you to get back to us you have forgotten the principal issue expressed, the physical and emotional abuse of persons disabled by environmental sensitivities by members of the medical profession and others in the health care system.

As indicated in provincial committee reports, standing committee testimony, internationally recognized studies, and by our organization for the past decade or more, the abuse is contributing to financial damages, increased disability, and suicides. You have not had the decency to respond to the concern that has been raised.

Persons with sensitivities are denied reasonable accommodation for their disability in the provision of health care across the province, and you expect us to get all excited because you plan to open a clinic that will be run by a man described by the leading international expert in this field, Nicholas Ashford, as a comedian!
